Train station construction set to begin by week's end

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Construction work is slated to begin this week on the train station in the Bethel Station commercial development.

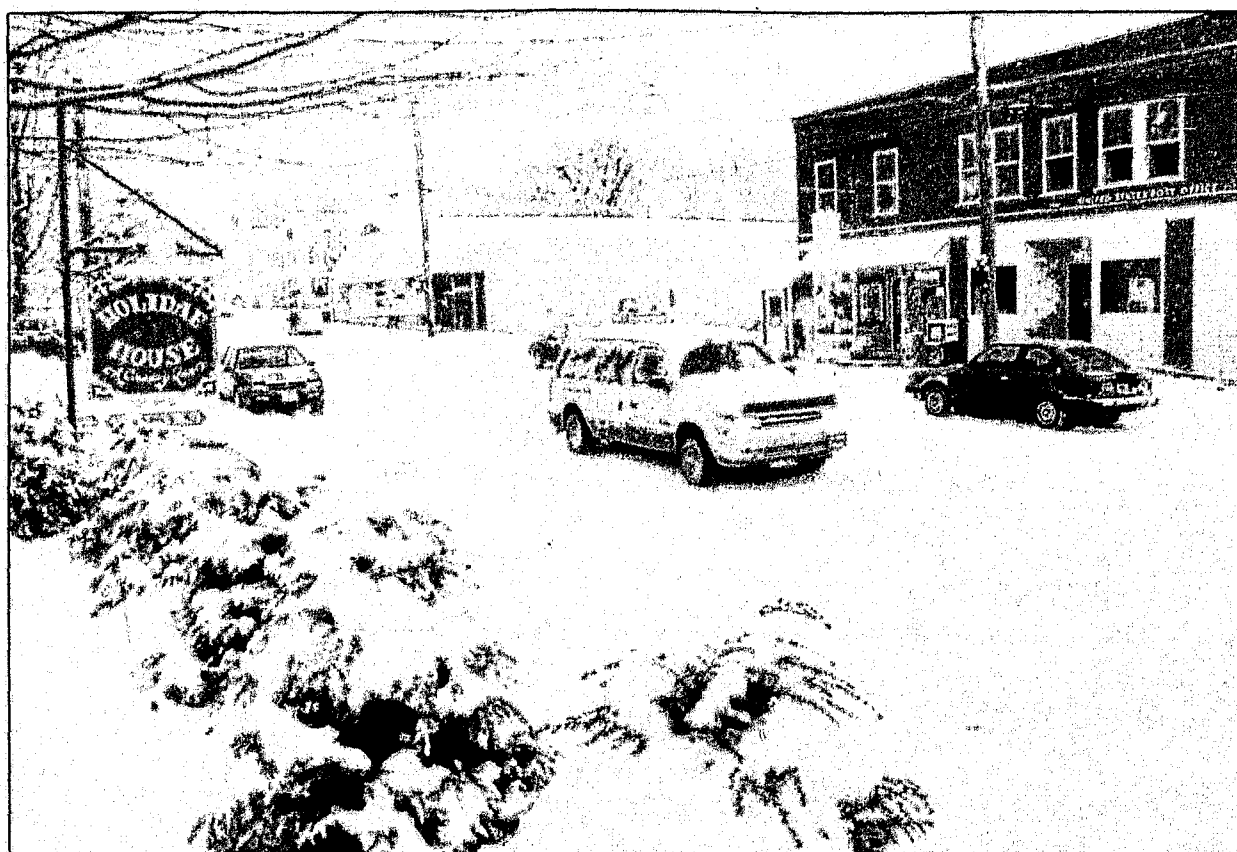

A Kittery firm, H.L. Patten Co., submitted the lowest of four bids on the work, according to developer Heinie Merrill.

The work is being funded by a $600,000 grant from the Federal Transportation Authority. The grant is administered by the Maine Department of Transportation, which will own the building and lease it back to the developers. (In August Bethel voters rejected the idea of the town owning the train station.)

Patten's base bid of $528,400 includes the station, platform and associated facilities, Merrill said.

Eight optional add-ons were also listed in the bid proposal, but not covered in the base bid. These in-

WINTER ARRIVES--A snowstorm Monday cancelled school and caused a few power outages and fender benders, but local police agencies reported no serious mishaps. Cold weather had arrived a few days earlier, just in time for the snowmakers at Sunday River. The resort had its second-best Thanksgiving ever. Bethel sewage plant will need more work 20-year plan sees need for $1 to 2 million new investment

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Over the past five years Bethel has spent more than $3.5 million on town plumbing -- pouring $860,000 into the sewage treatment plant and over $2.6 million into the lines that feed the sewer plant.

That investment served to correct design problems at the sewer plant and to remove excess drain water from the waste stream flowing through the facility.

In turn, those improvements got the town out from under the threat of stiff fines from the state Department of Environmental Protection, and they allowed the DEP to lift a sewer-hook-up moratorium that for more than a year and a half had virtually stopped in-town growth in its tracks.

The improvements also mean the town is no longer pouring raw or undertreated sewage into the Androscoggin River every time there is a heavy rain -- a practice that went on from the time the poorly designed treatment plant was brought on line in 1972.

The bulk of the money spent on these repairs was in the form of grants, which two town managers had worked hard to secure.

But still, according to the most recent town audit, Bethel residents are facing a balance of nearly $1.5 million in loans for the work. Sewer users, through their fees, are responsible for roughly half that amount; the balance is being paid by all town taxpayers (including sewer users).

Third step yet to come

For the past two years Bethel has been in general compliance with

DEP discharge requirements, but the first round of repairs at the sewer plant were more in the nature of a quick fix than a permanent solution -- especially given the expected growth of the town.

The final money for the treatment plant repairs was authorized at the last of three town meetings held on the problem during 1989.

At that meeting, the town's engineering consultant cautioned voters that finishing the job at the plant would cost at least another $800,000. (Note: this was not the same consulting firm that had badly underestimated the cost of the initial repairs.)

The Bethel Board of Selectmen was roundly criticized in 1989 for dragging their feet on the sewage problem -- and bringing on the DEP fine and hook-up moratorium.

Five years later the board members (only one member remains from 1989) appear determined not to make the same mistake.

The board has commissioned a study that not only updates the 1989 analysis, but also attempts to evaluate options for upgrading the existing plant to meet the system's wastewater treatment needs for the next 20 years.

It won't be cheap. The initial engineering report estimates a cost of $1.2 million for the work; a consultant who reviewed that report puts the figure at more like $2 million.

Just how much the town will spend, and how fast, depends in large part on population-growth projections -- since more people on

Hunters take fewer deer and bear this season

MUTANT DEER--This nine-point, four-horned buck was tagged in West Paris. (Photo by Randy Gladden)

By WENDY HANSCOM

This year's local hunting season was a mixed bag.

Deer-kill numbers were up in some areas and down in others, and all game inspection stations except Newry's reported fewer bear tagged.

Statewide the number of deer killed is down from about 27,000 last year to around 25,000 this year, according to Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife officials.

State biologists wanted to hold the count down in order to help Maine's herd rebuild after a cold winter. Frigid temperatures and deep snow last winter hurt the herd, keeping some deer from their usual food sources.

In 1993, the state issued 42,000 any-deer permits. But this season, that number was dropped to 32,000, and in some parts of northern and eastern Maine, only bucks could be shot.

Final kill numbers for this season won't be available until next month. The rifle season has ended, but muzzle loading is open this week.

Fairly safe season

Statewide there were only five accidents, one of those a fatality. Alan Wood, 46, died after being shot in the head last week as he was bird hunting from a canoe on Freedom Pond. Authorities have a suspect, but haven't released the suspect's name.

None of the four other injured hunters required hospital stays, according to IF&W spokesman Paul Fournier. Two of the four injured hunters shot themselves in the foot, Fournier said.

Maine has adopted laws that require mandatory hunter-safety courses, and state guidelines for wearing blaze orange have probably kept the number of accidents down.

Andover agrees to pay MCI tax rebate

By BARBARA ADAMS

The town will pay a rebate to MCI Telecommunications Corporation "in the neighborhood of $30,000," Selectman Chairwoman Kathy Williamson said last week.

This rebate, resulting from an agreement to lower the company's 1994 tax assessment, will settle MCI's tax assessment appeals back to 1988, Williamson said.

"I don't think there is anyone who doesn't know about it," Williamson said, "but we met with MCI and their two attorneys and (town attorney Curtis) Webber, and certified assessor Michael Austin on the 16th. MCI wanted to settle it over the bargaining table before we left.

"They offered a proposal, and we met separately and gave a counter-proposal. The attorneys are now trying to work out an agreement we can both sign."

Williamson noted it was "a very productive meeting" but said she still finds it hard to believe the matter is coming to an end.

"We want it signed, sealed and delivered before outside powers come in and change it," she said. "We aren't ready to breathe yet."

"We feel we could pay that ($30,000) just in legal fees next year," said Selectman Hal Frazier.

Williamson added that the town's professional services account will total $30,000 by the end of 1994.

"The payment to MCI will be done out of overlay, which is money over and above to pay any real estate abatements," she said.

"In a round-about way, it will come out of taxes because it will overdraw overlay, and the amount will come out of undesignated funds to cover the overdraft. Undesignated funds are used to reduce taxes."

Webber said last week had the town lost the legal cases in court, it could have had to pay MCI $1 million, a "staggering" sum which would have bankrupted the town.

Rotary Club Breakfast raises $800 for gazebo

By ALISON ALOISIO

The seventh annual Bethel Rotary Club Country Breakfast raised approximately $800 Sunday for the Bethel Common gazebo project.

Fund-raising efforts started in September to buy materials to build the gazebo, which was proposed by David Thurston and designed by architect Stuart Crocker, both of Bethel. Approximately $12,000 to $15,000 is needed.

Rotary Club treasurer John Head said that about 230 people attended the breakfast fundraiser, which was held at the Gould Academy dining hall.

"We had more people than we usually have. In other years we've had just under 200," he said.

Thurston said he appreciated the donations and is hopeful that two or three other substantial pledges toward the project will be forthcoming shortly.

"I hope those pledges will get us about halfway there," he said.

Donations to the gazebo project may be mailed to Bethel Gazebo Fund, P.O. Box 369, Bethel.

Rebel hoopsters still rebuilding

By WENDY HANSCOM

It seems the Telstar High School boys' basketball team is always rebuilding and this year the young hoopsters can only press on.

The Rebels have the third-highest scorer in the Mountain Valley Conference, senior co-captain Todd Wing, but one forward with a hot hand will probably not be enough to make the Rebels serious contenders in the MVC.

The Rebel team is young and small. They lost three men to graduation, Chris Howe, Keith Smith and Bill Chase.

This year there are just four returning lettermen, Wing; juniors Caesar Morgan and Keith Stevens; and sophomore co-captain Cory Koch.

Seniors Robert Cuff and Brian Spaulding are the only Rebels on the squad who top six feet, according to coach Mark Thurlow.

The other members of the 12-man team are: senior Rich Diaz; juniors

Heath Poland, Ian Richardson and Justin Hutchins; and sophomores Jason Berry and Tony Buker.

After a winless season in 1992-93, Telstar finished last season with a 3-13 record.

But even though third-year coach Thurlow is faced with another rebuilding year, he's confident his team will make some improvements this season.

"We're fairly quick this year," Thurlow said. "We're going to play full-court pressure defense for the first time in quite a while. I'm not making any rash statements, but the kids are working hard and they look good. We're small and I don't know how we're going to match up with teams who have taller guys."

Thurlow said he's looking for someone to back up Wing's scoring effort.

"We can't rely on Todd to do it all," the coach said. "We need someone to pick up some more points."

Telstar has had two scrimmage games, and it looks like there's potential for some Rebels to rack up buckets. In the two scrimmages, five men picked up 10 points or more, Thurlow said.

"I know the kids are hoping to do better (than last year's record)," Thurlow said. "This year is the best I've felt about the kids. They're working very hard. They'll be fun to watch. I think there's going to be some interesting games at Telstar this year."

The Rebels start the regular season at home, Monday, Dec. 5, against Jay.

J.V. play begins at 5:30 p.m. The varsity game should start around 7 p.m.

SNOMO BRIDGE WAS NOT READY

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Todd Kellogg's letter to the editor in last week's (Nov. 23) Citizen. Being one of the workers at the bridge in question I have a few observations to share.

The bridge was not completed at the time of confrontation. There were several planks left to nail down, there was a generator in the center of the bridge, and a trailer and two pickups were blocking one end. It appeared as if we were being asked to stop working and move our equipment so that they could cross. Our goal was to finish planking the bridge before dark, as it was 4 p.m. already, and get our equipment picked up, to insure safe crossing by others. We also have 25 other bridges which others use (of which only two are gated, both at the landowners' request). We do not promote the use of our bridges but we know it happens. Perhaps if Todd and his friend had offered to help instead of complaining they could have crossed the bridge upon completion. This bridge was completely funded by Greenstock Snowsports at the sum of $5,000.

As to the $15, which would have been the cost of a membership, it is our policy to try to get new members into the snowmobile club. It is our hope that these new members will become involved in trail development and maintenance as well as promoting safety and education in this sport.

Victor Young
Trailmaster, Greenstock Snowsports

DID THE ATV EVEN BELONG THERE?

To the Editor:

Based on a recent letter to the editor, there appears to be some misunderstandings regarding snowmobile and ATV laws in Maine. Let us take this time to clarify one of them. According to Maine ATV laws:

"A person is guilty of unlawfully operating a vehicle on a snowmobile trail if he operates any 4-wheel drive vehicle, dune buggy, ATV, motorcycle, or any other motor vehicle, other than a snowmobile or appurtenant equipment, on snowmobile trails which are funded in whole or in part with funds from the Snowmobile Trail Fund, unless that use has been authorized by the landowner or his agent."

Landowners have granted permission for Greenstock SnowSports to develop and maintain trails on their property for snowmobile use. There are some landowners that have expressly requested that no ATVs cross their property. This is their right and should be respected. It is up to the ATV owner to find out where he may or may not ride.

Greenstock SnowSports is a local club whose trail system encompasses land in Greenwood, Woodstock, Albany, Newry and even some in Bethel. The bridge in question is located in Bethel; however Greenstock maintains both bridge and trail. Innumerable volunteer hours are spent by a small handful of people to develop and maintain those trails and bridges and to raise funds to make it all possible. Club members have gone to great lengths with many fund-raising activities and over the past few years have been able to raise approximately $30,000, all of which has been devoted to the trail system.

Oscar Hartford has been the driving force behind our fund raising and without him we would not be where we are today. The Hartfords have been staunch supporters and active members of the Greenstock SnowSports for many years.

The goal of Greenstock SnowSports Club is to use the land we have been entrusted with, by the many landowners, to provide a trail system that is both safe and pleasurable for winter sports.

Mary Gatchell
Secretary, Greenstock SnowSports

FACTS ABOUT THE STAND OFF AT THE SNOWMOBILE BRIDGE

To the Editor:

Here are the facts, plain and simple.

Two young men wanted to cross the new Alder River bridge, which was being planked over by members of B & G Groomers and members of Greenstock SnowSports, of which Oscar Hartford and myself are members. We were there doing just a few of the many hours of volunteer work that goes into the making of a snowmobile trail system. These hours are recorded on work sheets by the trailmaster. Mr. Hartford has over the years accumulated thousands of hours of unpaid volunteer work, not to mention doing a superb job of being treasurer of Greenstock SnowSports.

This bridge is a funded snowmobile bridge and snowmobile trail in the town of Bethel for snowmobile use only. I myself received written permission 10 years ago from the owner for us to use it as a snowmobile trail and bridge. The law in the State of Maine says that you must receive permission from the landowner to use their land. To my knowledge neither one of these young men had permission to be on this funded snowmobile trail, much less to demand to cross a bridge where five people were on their hands and knees nailing planks down.

For the record, B & G Groomers and Greenstock maintain as many miles of trail in Bethel as does the Bethel Snowmobile Club, maybe even more.

Mr. Kellogg mentions about the work he has performed on trails, but I bet he can't even document one hour of it. I spent 10 years as Project Director for Bethel, Greenwood, and Woodstock and as many years as president of Greenstock and never once heard Mr. Kellogg's name mentioned. When I resigned people asked why? You all know why -- just like any volunteer work you are never appreciated for all your time and effort.

Oscar Hartford is one of the greatest assets to the snowmobile community that this area will ever see. He is a real person with many gifts. I just hope this real sorry incident doesn't discourage him as it did me. If we lose him we will lose the biggest asset the trail system has. Maybe what we really need is to turn it over to the Sunday Afternoon Rough Riders.

Hunt

Fournier said. It wasn't uncommon several years ago, he said, for as many as 19 hunters to die in a year.

Local kill count

Three out of five local game stations tagged fewer deer this year than last.

Overall five local stations tagged 351 deer this season, which is down from 394 killed last year. The deer kill count was up in Bethel and West Paris.

The bear count was down everywhere but in Newry.

At the end of the regular rifle season, local tagging stations reported the following totals (1993 totals in parentheses).

Bear River Cabins in Newry: 28 (38) deer; 20 (12) bear.

Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills: 36 (54) deer; does not tag bear.

Brown's Mobil Station in Bethel: 80 (75) deer; 17 (34) bear.

Mills Market in Andover: 54 (89) deer; 16 (21) bear.

Trap Corner Store in West Paris: 153 (138) deer; 8 (14) bear.

Some trophy kills

A few big bucks were bagged this year.

At the Trap Corner Store, Richard Estes of Summer tagged a 238-pound buck with eight points.

The store's deer count was up by 15 this season.

Store manager Randy Gladden said he wasn't sure why his numbers were up when almost everyone else's were down, but he did pass along a little hearsay.

"One of the people that tagged a deer was a conductor on the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad," Gladden said. "He told me they saw a lot more deer around the tracks south of Bethel, in the West Paris area, than they usually did."

Other big bucks included a 245-pound buck that Bill Murphy of Bethel tagged at Brown's Mobil.

"We had some good sized ones," said Maryanne Fifield at Brown's. "I think they were bigger this year than last."

Bob's Corner Store tagged three 10-point bucks and two eight-point ones.

Everyone agreed it was a pretty calm season.

"It was really quiet here," said Roger Mills of Andover. "We're down from last year, and the year before last."

Hunter and Upton Trading Post owner Jerry Geiling agreed.

"The deer are the ones who made out this year," Geiling said.

PILOT IS GLAD TO BE ALIVE, AND IN BETHEL

To the Editor:

This Thanksgiving brought new meaning to me, as The Citizen pointed out last week. After having some time to settle down, I ventured back to the site of my aircraft accident. I feel very lucky that my friend and I are alive and unharmed.

Thinking back, the response time of the Bethel Emergency Ambulance Rescue Service was amazing. The crew members were well prepared and came in full force to handle any injuries that may have occurred. Bethel Police were also well equipped and secured the area promptly. Stephen Whitney, of Bethel Air Service, immediately notified the FAA and came to the scene to assist. Greg Blum, the landowner, was also a great help. The road and construction crew at the town garage helped to expedite the whole process. They made radio calls and bulldozed a path for fire trucks. Everyone was genuinely concerned about our safety.

I would like to thank each and every person who assisted. This was truly a professional effort with lots of small town heart. Most of all, I would like to thank my loving bride and our beautiful 11-month-old son, who watched the whole occurrence and have helped me through.

I am proud to call Bethel my new home.

THANKS FOR TOY AUCTION HELP

To the Editor:

The Mundi-Allen Unit #81 of the American Legion Auxiliary would like to say thank you to all those who supported our efforts by attending the three toy auctions.

Unfortunately, due to the small attendance we have had to cancel the final auction. Again a heartfelt thanks to all who attended.

A special thank you to all the workers and those who donated food. We couldn't have done it at all without you.

Thank you again to everyone and happy holidays.

Secretary, Mundi-Allen Unit

CPS CRAFT FAIR THANKS

To the Editor:

Thank you to all who helped to make our ninth annual CPS Craft Fair a huge success once again. It has been several years since we housed this popular event in our own school. Many people bought or browsed from the wide selection of crafts made by crafters set up in the cafeteria, gymnasium and hallways of Crescent Park School. Our own CPS students also made crafts for the occasion.

Parents, teachers and students certainly played an important part in the success of this event. The food donated to the food tables was abundant and tasty. Students council members did a fine job at tending the lunch tables with the help of their chairperson, Ellen Greeke, and other adult volunteers. Teachers did a fantastic job in selecting crafts to be made with the students. Many classrooms made more than one craft. A special thank you to Pattie Parsons, Marilyn Swan and Tracey Mason for the tremendous help given.

Many volunteers donated their time Saturday morning and throughout the day. Thank you to those who volunteered with face painting, balloons, raffles, CPS tables, cleaning up and everything else.

A sincere thank you to the following business who so graciously helped to support the Crescent Park School:

The Village Sampler, Mountainside Country Crafts, Kelly's Auto Parts, Rhea Lu's China Gem, Bethel Pizza, Fashion Basket, Bethel Big Apple, Main Street #1 Video, Red Top Truck Stop, True North, Shur Fine of Locke Mills, Wild Rose, Sandy's Kitchen, Sunday River, Preb's Pharmacy, Forbizi, Bethel Day Care, Children's Dance Theatre, Bob's Corner Store, Hometown Bakery, Maine Line Products, Mt. THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The annual "Christmas with the Masons" will be the feature of the next monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society to be held on Thursday, Dec. 1, at the Society's Broad Street headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House.

At 6:30 p.m., the Society will once more host a gathering in the museum, which will be decorated as it might have been in the early 19th century, with bows, berries and fruit; hot mulled cider will be served from the hearth of the winter kitchen; delicious Christmas treats will tempt visitors in the dining room; early holiday music will be provided by Gretchen Ewalt on the flute. In the meeting room, the West Parish Congregational Church Bell Choir will perform and Edna York will lead carol singing at the piano. At 7:30 p.m., a short business meeting will be held followed by slides of old photographs produced during the past year.

There is no admission charge and anyone interested in attending this annual event is cordially invited to do so.

During December the Society will once again offer its 25-percent-off sale on everything in the museum shop except items added this fall. Anyone wishing to take advantage of this substantial discount for holiday giving is urged to come by during regular hours at the Dr. Moses Mason House, Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by appointment, call 824-2908. Be sure to bring the special ad in The Citizen for an additional $2 of savings.

Briefly

Low survey return kills grant chance

ANDOVER--The Water District here won't be able to apply for a low-income grant, because too few surveys were returned by district customers, water officials say. The grant would have been used to help defray the cost of a new water system. Among the items on the survey was a question asking Water District customers to report their income level. District directors had hoped to apply for a low-income grant that would have helped defray the expense of a Farmers Home Administration loan. "If you don't have enough for the survey," said Water District director Hal Frazier, "they don't think enough people are interested in getting a grant and they won't give you the money. If for some reason we do get more back, we can use the surveys down the road, possibly for a smaller grant."

Resort blamed for tainting recyclables

NEWRY--Sunday River Ski Resort was blamed recently for putting 500 pounds of unrecyclable materials in the town's recycling bins. Most of the material was posters and brochures from the resort. Newry officials say no one at the resort seemed to know how the material got into the bins. Sunday River officials promised the town they would give their workers more information on what's acceptable for recycling.

Big users to get CMP rate cut

AUGUSTA--Central Maine Power Co. is planning to give its largest industrial customers a rate cut. In return, the industries must promise to stay on the CMP grid and not install their own generators for at least five years. About 30 companies may qualify for the cuts. Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry will probably be part of the program, according to Mountain Manager Burt Mills, but no contract between the resort and CMP have been discussed in detail or signed. Large customers will get a 15 percent reduction next year, and 18 percent by 1999.

Huge bear killed in South Waterford

SOUTH WATERFORD--Sam Giles Jr. of South Waterford shot his first bear recently -- a male that dressed out at 313 pounds. Giles was hunting with his father, Samuel Giles Sr., near Hawk Mountain in South Waterford. The younger Giles was also successful during the moose season, killing a bull.

Service groups' requests slashed

ANDOVER--The town's selectmen and Budget Committee cut back, or recommended no funding, last week for several 1995 budget requests. The group recommended no funding for several service groups, and recommended that requests from other service groups be scaled back significantly.

Maine trains blocked in N.H.

GORHAM, N.H.--A railroad bridge in the White Mountains that is 4 1/2 feet too low for new double-stacked rail cars is hindering a push for intermodal rail freight service from Maine to Chicago. The bridge crosses over the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad track in Gorham, N.H. The railroad plans to lower the railroad to get the necessary 22-foot clearance. The cost estimate is about $750,000. Intermodal transportation uses containers that can be moved with repacking. The containers can be shipped by rail, truck, ship or a combination of all three.

Great Whale project postponed

QUEBEC--Hydro-Quebec has shelved its $13 billion Great Whale hydroelectric project. Quebec Premier Jacques Parizeau's announcement of the postponement delighted conservationists, New England human rights activists and Cree Indians in Northern Canada. Parizeau said the postponement is based on reduced demand for power in the Northeast and Quebec. Cree and Inuits who lived in the area that would have been flooded by the giant electricity-generating dams said the project would be an environmental disaster. Plans called for five dams and 126 dikes, which would have flooded about 2,000 square kilometers of land in the James and Hudson bays.

Pipe crashes through school roof

OTISFIELD--A vent pipe went through the ceiling of the third-grade bathroom earlier this month at the Otisfield Community School. The accident occurred on a staff development day, when students were not at school. The pipe destroyed a toilet. Parents have been assured that the school's roof is fixed now and can withstand the weight of a winter's snow.

Hunter's death still a mystery

FREEDOM--A 46-year-old hunter died last week after being shot in the head while sitting in a canoe. Alan Wood, who lived in the Winslow-Vassalboro area, was not shot by either of his two hunting companions, authorities said. Wood was in a canoe on Freedom Pond with two other goose hunters when he was shot. Authorities said last week that the shot that killed Wood was fired from outside the canoe. The case remains under investigation. Authorities have a suspect, but are not releasing his name. No arrest has been made.

State troopers retiring, more needed

AUGUSTA--A rash of State Trooper retirements has the Maine State Police scrambling to find new recruits to fill the next State Police Academy in 1995. "During November and December, 21 State Police veterans will retire and another 15 are expected to retire next year," said Col. Alfred Skolfield, Chief of the Maine State Police. "These 36 officers leave the department with a wealth of experience and many of them are detectives, sergeants and lieutenants, which will require promotions within the department to fill those positions." The department has been recruiting throughout New England for several weeks. The deadline for applications is Dec. 5. It takes six months to process applications, Skolfield said. Applications are available from a Maine Job Service Office or by calling 624-7056.

Wild turkeys making a comeback

OXFORD--The number of wild turkeys in Maine is increasing. State biologists have worked for years to increase the wild turkey population and the number of gobblers has gone up in coastal areas. Every year the Inland Fisheries and Wildlife Division issues 500 hunting permits for the birds and last year 62 toms were killed. Hunting is limited to York, Cumberland and portions of Sagadahoc and Androscoggin counties. Hens are protected; only toms may be shot. Game officials estimate there are about 2,000 wild turkeys along the coast. The birds are scarcer inland, but there is a flock of about 46 in Oxford, and another flock in Mechanic Falls.

Loon plates still selling well

AUGUSTA--The Maine Bureau of Motor Vehicles reports that as of the end of September, 46,176 loon plates had been sold. The plates cost $20 extra each time a vehicle is registered and are available with up to five digits. For the first two years of the program, the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife receives $4 from each plate sold. Sales of the plates have generated about $185,000 so far for the wildlife department.

Couples charged with endangerment

GRAY--A Lewiston couple and a Windham couple are facing charges of endangering the welfare of minors, for leaving five young children alone in a car outside a Gray bar, according to police. The Lewiston couple was released last week on personal recognizance bail after pleading not guilty at their District Court arraignment in Portland. The Windham parents are scheduled for arraignment on Dec. 19. The four adults were arrested after a Cumberland County Sheriff's deputy pursued a tip that children had been left unattended for several hours in two vehicles parked outside the White Cue Connection. The children ranged in age from four months to five years, according to police. They were dressed in pajamas and trying to sleep in the vehicles, police said.

clude site improvements, canopies, a clock, ceramic tile, wainscoting and floor and roofing upgrades.

Merrill said a pre-construction meeting today (Wednesday) will determine which of these can be squeezed in under the $600,000 cap.

The developer said he hoped that the station platform would be ready in time for the season's first run of the Silver Bullet Ski Express, on Dec. 26.

The station itself, he said, will not be ready until February at the earliest.

From the Bethel Police log:

Family dispute leads to arrests and broken cruiser window

On Saturday, Nov. 26 at 1:15 a.m., a Mechanic Street woman asked police to help her retrieve her keys from her boyfriend. Police spoke to the woman's boyfriend, who turned over the keys. A dispute then broke out with several subjects yelling threats at the complainant, according to the report. Police arrested Michael Small, 30, of West Bethel on two counts of assault and one count of disorderly conduct. Wanda McAlister of Bethel was also arrested on charges of criminal threatening and disorderly conduct. She was handcuffed and placed in the cruiser. She told the officer she was claustrophobic. The officer rolled the cruiser window down, but McAlister began kicking at the door and kicked the window out. She was then charged with criminal mischief. The window was replaced Tuesday morning.

In other recent police news:

Saturday, Nov. 26

At 10 a.m. - Police discovered that the stop sign at the intersection of Railroad and Main streets was missing.

At 1:08 p.m. - A Main Street business owner reported an unwanted subject. An elderly woman had refused to leave, according to the report. The same woman created a "disturbance" and was asked to leave another Main Street business on Nov. 23, according to the report.

At 6:30 p.m. - Maureen Trembley of Berlin, N.H. reported hitting a deer on Route 2 in West Bethel. Damage to her 1989 Oldsmobile's grill and driver's side door was estimated at $250.

Wednesday, Nov. 23

At 3:08 p.m. - Cars driven by Cornelius Merrill of Bethel and Noelle Gauthier of Bethel collided in Western Maine Supply's parking lot. Damage to Gauthier's Subaru wagon was estimated at $250.

At 10:19 p.m. - Police arrested Vadim S. Benderman, 24, of Warren, R.I. on a charge of driving to endanger and speeding in excess of 30 mph of the posted zone. Benderman's vehicle was towed and he was transported to Oxford County Jail.

Tuesday, Nov. 22

At 12:19 p.m. - A Schoolbrook Road resident reported that a blue van had hit two mailboxes on the road. Damage to the boxes was estimated at $27.50 each.

At 1:24 p.m. - Police assisted at an airplane crash at the Col. Dyke Field on the Northwest Bethel Road.

At 3:50 p.m. - A Bethel man told police his windshield had been hit by a BB pellet as he traveled on Route 26 in Bethel. Damage was estimated at $250.

At 11:03 p.m. - A West Bethel man reported that four New Hampshire subjects were threatening him at his residence. When police arrived, the officer was told one subject might be armed. The West Bethel man told police an argument broke out over who would pay for damages to one of the New Hampshire men's vehicle. One New Hampshire man was handcuffed as he came out the door of the residence and placed in the cruiser. As a second subject came out of the house looking for the first man, police asked him to yell to the third man to come out. He did, and both men were cuffed and put in the cruiser. The fourth subject was a juvenile girl, who was transported to the Gorham Police Department by a Shelburne police officer. The West Bethel man pressed no charges and the three men were released and warned that if they returned they could be arrested for criminal trespass.

Monday, Nov. 21

At 11:51 p.m. - A West Bethel woman reported hearing shots fired behind Newton and Tebbets Mill. Police checked the area around the boat landing and found nothing. The officer spotted a pickup truck on the other side of the river. The officer searched logging roads off the Northwest Bethel Road, but found no evidence of night hunters.

Accidents

Nov. 27 - At 1:15 a.m. Ambrose Brooks, 29, of Bethel was traveling west on Route 5 when his vehicle crossed over into the left lane, left the road and hit a tree head-on. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $3,000. Brooks told police he was distracted before the accident.

Nov. 25 - At 10 a.m. vehicles driven by George Schnake, 67, of Baileys Island, and Paul Danis, 36, of Boston, Mass. collided at the intersection of Cross Street and Route 2. Schnake's vehicle slid through the intersection, hitting Danis, who was parked at the stop sign, according to the report. Damage to Schnake's 1990 Oldsmobile was estimated at $1,000; to Danis' 1994 Chevy rental car, $1,000.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Sewer plant

the system means more demand on the treatment plant.

Bethel Station alone, if the project is carried to full completion, would put an organic load on the plant equivalent to that of 340 single-family homes. There are currently 465 customers on the system.

The selectmen have asked the engineers to draw up a timeline indicating what decisions will have to be made and when. The board is expected to begin reviewing that information in mid-December.

Paying for the work may not be quite as painful as $2 million projection suggests. The town has included $1 million for treatment plant work in a $1.5 million Economic Development Agency grant for infrastructure work associated with the Bethel Station project (a decision on that grant is expected in mid-1995).

The town will also receive a substantial Sewer System Development Charge from Bethel Station, as the project's various buildings are opened.

But the Bethel Station SSDC will be far lower than the original projection of $440,000, since the selectmen have agreed to allow the developers to calculate the fee on the basis of actual water usage rather than the usage figures in the Maine Plumbing Code.

Other funding is likely to be available through Community Development Block Grants, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley.

Greenwood

West Knoll Rd. residents ask to have stretch closed

By WENDY HANSCOM

Two Greenwood neighbors asked town selectmen last week to close part of the West Knoll Road that runs past their homes.

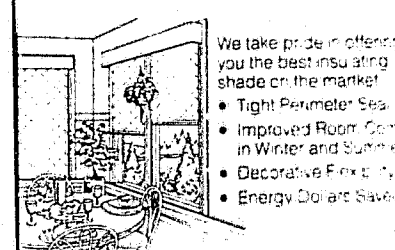

Steve Brown and Steve Seames would like the mid-section of the road closed and grassed over.

The West Knoll Road is an offshoot of the Knoll Road and connects with the Mt. Abram Road.

But selectmen told the pair that although they support the plan, they have no authority to close any part of the road.

"According to (the Brown and Seames) deeds, they don't show any road over their property," said selectman Marie Bartlett. "As far as we know, more than 30 years ago someone decided to put asphalt down in that section, and the town started plowing it. According to the town's attorney, if the town has maintained a road for 25 years or more then they can't discontinue doing it without a town vote."

Selectmen asked the men to draft and submit an article for the Town Meeting warrant.

Andover

By KAREN MCKAY

The Andover Elementary School grades five and six basketball practices begin on Thursday, Dec. 1, at 2:30 to 4 p.m. Practices will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from then on. Congratulations to Erika Davis -- Student of the Week Nov. 14-18.

Rumor has it that Santa will be stopping by the Fire Station on Sunday, Dec. 4, at 1 p.m. Following Santa's visit the Service Circle will hold the lighting of the Christmas tree on the Town Common at 4 p.m.

The Fire Department and the Andover Rescue are always looking for new members. Call Ken Dixon at 392-3171 for more information.

There were two raffles held during the First Congregational Church's Country Christmas Fair. The winner of the red cardinal carving, donated by Art Schroeder, was David Percival. The "Taste of Andover" gift basket was won by Judy Michaud.

The deer hunting season closed on Saturday, with a total of 54 deer tagged at Mills' Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swan took Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith to the Country Way in South Paris where they met Emma Ordway, Charlie's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith had a Thanksgiving dinner at Telstar, hosted by the National Honor Society.

Opal and Peggy Coolidge had Thanksgiving dinner at Telstar, hosted by the National Honor Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Andre Bernier, with Danielle and Jay had Thanksgiving dinner early (Nov. 20) with Mr. and Mrs. Phil Korhonen in Bryant Pond. Ken Scribner is in Stephens Memorial Hospital with broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Alice Grant of Cape Elizabeth and Marilyn Mollicone of Augusta visited Leslie Noyes from Nov. 23 to Nov. 27. They had Thanksgiving dinner with him and Nina Mollicone.

Dana and Millie Jackson had Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Greg Eden in Salem, N.H.

Jennifer Bean, daughter of Wayne and Wilma Bean, was home from Becker College in Massachusetts for Thanksgiving.

Denise Coolidge and her friend Dan from U.M.O. visited Daisy Coolidge for Thanksgiving.

Charlie Haines, Peggy Coolidge and Daisy Coolidge, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mason were at a dance at the American Legion Hall on Nov. 19. This dance was a benefit dance for Ken Mason.

Curator Larry Billings has given a piece of Limoges and a slightly damaged piece of custard glass to the Historical Society. The society has many excellent antiques. There are many interesting historical centers throughout the country -- places such as Greenfield Village, Williamsburg, Shelburne, Sturbridge, and Willowbrook. The society learns from such facilities.

There was a good turnout at the Thanksgiving dinner at Telstar on Sunday. Many thanks go to the National Honor Society and adviser JoAnne Chase.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Dec. 1, at the Masonic Hall with the Star Birthday Club putting on the dinner. Please bring a gift for a child, unwrapped; these will go to Christmas for Kids.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Nov. 21, with 26 present. It was voted to have a supper before each meeting in Dec., Jan., Feb., and March. There is only one meeting a month during these four months and it is held on the third Monday, with a 6:30 supper and 7:30 meeting. The December meeting will have exchange of gifts for the program. The program was as follows: opening thought, Peggy Blake; song by all; Indian dance by Pam Moody; Dot Canwell, Lucy Ridley and Richard Felt played some music; reading, "Thank You Lord," by Lettie Brooks; Tableaux with four ladies; reading by Althea Fish which was written by Olive Davis; closing song; closing thought. The next meeting will be Dec. 19.

Althea Stevens and Jennifer called on their grandmother, Beatrice Farnum, Saturday. On Sunday, her daughter Leatrice Chase and granddaughter Crystal Chase called on her.

Ruth Tyler has returned home from MMC, Portland.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway have been Debra Millett, Harriett Estes and Phyllis and Reynold Jordan.

Norman and Julie White were at dinner with the Delano family on Thanksgiving Day.

Gertrude Hutchins, with other family members, got together with son Robert and wife Janet for Thanksgiving dinner.

Florence Hall had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hall on Thursday. Nephew Alfred Marston, South Portland, called on Aunt Florence on Friday. She also had phone calls from nephew Steve Hall in Georgia and Tiffanie Marston in Oklahoma.

Janice Roy and sister Janet called at Aunt Gertrude's on Friday.

Thought of the day: Stubbornness we deprecate, but firmness we condone. The former is our neighbor's trait, the latter is our own.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

My article today I'll take from a gallery of landscapes in my memory of things seen over the years, and I enjoy them in retrospect almost as much as I did when I tucked them away.

When walking I enjoy the soft stillness, sensing the mystery of the solitude. I never hurry for I like to see, feel and hear. Haste at any time narrows the view.

I have noticed many places and things; a quiet spot where the ferns grow, a tiny bubbling brook with its never ending song, a birch tree, which grew in an unusual way, mosses and much more.

I recall the red squirrel which I came upon suddenly in leaves very near to my feet. My heart skipped a beat, and I'm sure that his did, too. He sped away up a tree and through the branches to the shadowy recess of the forest.

I had scarcely recovered from that incident when I had a real surprise. Across the trail a small tree had fallen and I was debating whether to go around it or over it. I chose the latter. While looking for an easy way among the branches, I glanced ahead. There stood, at the edge of the trail, a small deer. She lifted her lovely face and as long as I live, two velvety eyes will blossom in my heart. What a joy it was!

Experiences like that are few unless you travel the woods.

My memories are not just of trails and forests for I recall beauty in a small fishing settlement. There, there is change in the color of the bay, in the rise and fall of the tides in the creek. The great blue herons unafraid take their time fishing in the shallows. In the morning there is freshness that makes you think of the first mayflowers that come so quickly after the last snow.

There are foggy days and rainy days, when it isn't so fresh, but there is an unreal quality to the high, wooden dock and to the cranes that lift the clam baskets. These things set the mind running in poetic channels. You cannot mind the fog and mist so much, when it decks spider webs with diamonds or when on emerald velvet moss it lays a gossamer film that catches an iridescent light, like bubbles.

There are many other places and things that I can recall, such as clinging snow, enchanting sunsets that range from pink to violet and purple.

Places and places, mountains and mountains that I have climbed are all stored away. I have touched upon but a few of them today.

Last week was "going" time for me. On Monday, I met with four cousins who were collecting material for genealogy, so we visited cemeteries where our aunts and uncles are buried. We also called on Ruby Emery, who is a cousin.

Tuesday, Rena and I went to see our brother Ernest in Poland.

On Wednesday I joined other teachers for lunch and a day together.

Thursday, I stayed at home. Friday was grocery shopping day, and in the p.m. I had my furnace cleaned.

Saturday, I was at the Retired Teachers meeting at Locke Mills.

Sunday was church day, and I had dinner with the Holts at the farm.

Rena Curtis had an early Thanksgiving at her home on Nov. 20. She had 34 for dinner.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Paul Wight passed away Friday, the 18th. Another neighbor gone -- "God giveth quietness at last to the one who must sleep now, tired he sleeps. And life's poor play is over." Amen

Sunday, the 20th, was the Senior Citizens' 12th annual Thanksgiving Dinner, given by the Telstar Regional High School National Honor Society. They should be proud of themselves for catering to us "old folks." It was wonderful, delicious and plentiful! I am sure everyone who went would like to thank them for a delightful day. Also thanks to the Gould Academy National Honor Society. The music of the Richard Felt Orchestra was great. We "old folks" appreciate those old-time melodies. God Bless.

Thanksgiving guests at John and Nancy Wight's were: Terri and Staci Littlehale; Retta, Jason and Mandy Berry; Michael Wight; Brad, Brenda, Katie, Kurt and Kevin Wight; Dennis and Rita Wilson of Bethel and Fred and Josh Wheeler of Bethlehem, N.H.

Dani Littlehale of Newry and Toni Vacca of Bethel spent the holiday in Florida as the guests of Toni Vacca's grandparents.

Guests for a pre-Thanksgiving dinner on Sunday, Nov. 20, at the home of Norman and Eleanor Davis were: Ken, Rose and Deanna Davis; Brian, Wendy, Jay, Adam, Eric, and Kelsie Hanscom; Darren Heibert and Michael Kinslow.

Adam Hanscom was selected last week as Crescent Park School student of the week.

The Windy Valleys Sno-mobile Club members will meet Dec. 6, 6 p.m., with a potluck supper, Christmas Party and exchange of gifts at the Town Building. See you there.

Only three members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" braved the snowstorm to go bowling at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford -- Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark and Gil Seeley. Karlene was high on both the singles and triples. She beat Betsy by four pins. Betsy had three spares and Gil had one spare.

Bill and Sylvia Wight spent Thanksgiving with her sister in Contoocook, N.H.

Guests for Thanksgiving at Ras and Karlene Bachelder's were their granddaughter Michelle, her husband Paul Josephson and their grandson Tom O'Donnell, all from Portland, also Kevin Slater of the Mahoosuc Mountain Adventure, and yours truly. Michelle and Paul showed us a lot of pictures they took while on a business trip for the travel agency they both work for. "You are what you eat." Food values can be measured only in terms of health...not by their cost per pound.

I just heard that another North Newry friend has also passed away, Bernie Powers. Our sympathy goes to Rena. "Is it then so sad a thing to die..." Death gives us sleep, eternal youth, and immortality.

Services were held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning, Nov. 20, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy on the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Thanks to God," from Scriptures Colossians 1:1-16. "I thank my God always on your behalf for the Grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ."

Have tried calling some of my neighbors to get their Thanksgiving news, so will write on the ones I've been able to contact and try to catch the others in the next week or so.

Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway spent Thanksgiving with their daughter and husband, Dennis and Karen Fortier, in Berlin, N.H. They talked with other relatives on the phone during the day.

Tommy Poland spent the day with Sandra and Mike Monzo and children at their home in South Paris. Tammy Davis and girls, Shea, Bailey and Emma, also had dinner with the Monzos. Aaron Bean joined the Monzos for Thanksgiving dinner. In the afternoon, Rachel and Kyle Curtis and boys, Kaitlin, Casey and Cody from South Portland, came for dessert. Tracy and Ken Grover from East Bethel, along with children, Samantha, Alex and twins Brooke and Ken, and Dennis and Brandy Poland came in the p.m. to feast on the dessert goodies.

Buster and Claribel Poland had a very quiet day; Claribel cooked dinner and Leon and Rosalie Poland joined them for dessert. Beverly Dayton, their daughter, and Lani Bertrum, a granddaughter from Florida, made phone calls to Maine to talk with Buster and Claribel. Evelyn Dunn from Campton, N.H., also called during the day to say they would be leaving for California soon.

Minna Morgan had around 40 guests for her traditional dinner. They included Elaine and Larry Wilday and children with husbands and wives, Polly Bean and family, Sheryl Wilbur, Theresa and Mike Nadeau and daughter, Sheldon and I'm back. For the past two weeks, I've been absent from the paper because of circumstances beyond my control. Two weeks ago, I forgot to mail in the column on time; last week, my parents forgot to mail it for me! This week, however, everything has gone according to schedule.

Emma Billings went out to lunch at the Chickadee with her friends, June Roy, Leatrice Record, and Nancy Henderson. A fun time was had by all.

Last week, I reported on the wedding reception of Alison Chapman and Blaine Dry. This week, I have further details to offer. On Friday evening, the day preceding the reception, Alison and her parents

(Louise and Alan Chapman) joined Blaine and his parents (Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dry) for dinner at the Town and Country Inn in Gorham, N.H. Blaine's sisters and their families also dined with them. Late that night, Sarah Chapman arrived from Monterey, Calif., where she is enrolled in the Chinese school. The reception on Saturday went smoothly. A delicious cake was provided by Karen Gould, and decorations came from Sharon Silver and Wes Pierce of Silver Creations.

Before they left, Alison and Blaine called on Alison's great-grandmother, Winola Billings. A nice visit was enjoyed by all.

Carroll Verrill Jr. treated Lee and Emma Billings to lunch at Shaner's restaurant last week.

Joelle Silver reports that her kitens are growing rapidly.

Bridget Billings missed two days of school this week, due to illness.

Linda Tyler enjoyed some time in Pinhook over the past weekend.

That's it from North Woodstock
this week!

Ivan Proctor and Ivan, Jr.

The West Paris Historical Society met last Monday evening with 13 members present. A potluck supper preceded the meeting. The society received a framed picture of the old linen mill at Snow Falls from Ronald Ross. The next meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 19. There will be refreshments after the meeting and program. The members voted to put on a public supper on Jan. 28.

Lempi Cyr enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner with her daughter, Bonnie Abbott and family in Lewiston.

Sally Doughty had dinner with daughter Nancy and Pete Robertson and Kathleen.

Gary and Lisa Latno entertained his parents on Thursday.

Walter, Kim, Vernie and Walter,

Howdy, folks. This is Monday morning, the 21st day of November, and it looks like we're in for another cloudy day. A bit earlier the Eastern Sky was a real beautiful pink, and I guess that was a warning of the storm that is approaching.

Peggy got home from her card work last Monday, so we went to the new Wal-Mart store for some shopping. If one is to cover the whole store looking for goodies, a lot of time passes quite quickly.

We got a call from Alice Hoyt, chairman of the CWA Committee of Franklin Grange that evening telling me I was a winner of the Thanksgiving basket that the Grange sold chances on. I certainly was pleased, as now we're assured of enough to eat for a few more days. Thanks to all who donated food for the basket.

Peggy went down street Tuesday morning to have her hair trimmed and set. I do feel sorry for those people that have to spend so much taking care of their hair, and I realize how lucky I am, as I can pretty much set my hair with a washcloth.

Tuesday afternoon, we went to Bryant Pond to pick up my winnings at the home of Alice and Ken Hoyt.
From there we went to the spring above Bryant Pond to fill some containers with drinking water and then on to the big store in Locke Mills to get a few groceries. We needed flour and it was on sale there.

After getting back home, I got a call from my good doctor, Dr. Ware, as he wanted me to know the results of a special blood test that had been taken.

Peggy spent several hours last Wednesday attending a meeting in Portland, along with a lot of other ladies who do card work for the Ambassador Card Co. This was an instructional meeting where they discuss the many changes that have taken place, or are about to take place, and the meeting ended with a nice lunch furnished by the company. It was a good day for traveling and Peggy really enjoyed it all.

While Peggy was gone, I got a call from Betty Foster, Postmaster at East Andover Post Office, to let us know that our sister Laura was taken to the Rumford hospital the evening before. As soon as Peggy got home from Portland, we left for Rumford to see how sister Laura was. We were pleased to find her improved and about to be released from the hospital, so we waited around and then took her to her home in East Andover.

On Thursday, we decided that it was about time to get the double windows in, washed, and put on. I brought them in and Peggy got them washed and we put on some of them, but there are more to do.

We stuck around most of the day
Thursday, as we were expecting UPS to deliver a package containing new filters for our humidifier. We got a call Wednesday evening telling us that they had the package, but they couldn't find us that day. Isn't that something? We've lived here for 11 years and UPS has always managed to find us before, but this time it was a big mystery where we live.

We did leave about 3:30 p.m. to take Peggy's car down to Northeast Tire Co. to leave it so that they could do some tune-up work on it. I went with the truck so as to bring her back home. After we returned, UPS came with my package.

Thursday evening, we attended the nice supper and program at West
Paris Grange. Residents of Chapel Valley Home had been invited to come for the supper and program, and many of them did come. I think they all enjoyed themselves. West Paris Grange makes inviting Chapel Valley residents an annual event.

Peggy went to work with my old truck Friday morning, and then we went down to Northeast Tire Co. to get her car after she returned home from doing her card work at the Rite Aid Drug Stores.

We learned Friday that Lina Reynolds had died at the home of her daughter and husband, Julie and Eddy Daye, on Sunday River. We wish to extend our sympathy to the members of her family. Lina was a nice, caring person and a fixture of Sunday River for many years of her life. Lina made friends wherever she went.

Saturday forenoon, Peggy was making some of her good yeast bread, but it was nice outside so I started making a box of sorts to fit into the pickup for hauling sand for the yard when winter does decide to move in and gives us ice. I got along quite nicely and needed a sheet of chipboard to use for the bottom, so Peggy drove me down to Hancock Lumber to get it. After dinner, Peggy helped me some and we finished the box and got it installed in the pickup. It is now ready for business. I think it will prove to be quite an improvement over using just a plastic tarp like I have done in past winters.

Sunday was a real nice day, and at lunch time we joined lots of other senior citizens to enjoy the Senior Citizen Dinner put on at Chef's
Table in South Paris.

Sister Laura came down from East Andover and joined us at the restaurant for lunch. People turned out in large numbers to take advantage of their offer, and everybody received a nice Thanksgiving dinner. The price for senior citizens was $2.95 each, which is quite a low price for something real good. I believe Chef's Table will be putting on another senior citizen lunch before Christmas, and probably again before Easter. We have eaten there many times and always found the food to be delicious.

We returned home from our dinner at Chef's Table and were soon on our way to attend the funeral services for Lina Reynolds at the Artist's Bridge over Sunday River.
Many relatives and friends attended the nice services. Lina had lived in Florida for many years before her sickness, but certainly nobody had forgotten what a lovely person she had been. After the services, Peggy and Barbara Yates joined those gathering at the home of Julie and Eddy Daye. We visited with Bryce and Barbara Yates until we returned home in the evening.

Kathleen Holden and Mary Lovejoy visited Helena Bartlett at the Bethel House last Monday.

The next three dances will be held at West Paris Grange Hall. The dance on Dec. 3 will be a regular dance for the benefit of the Grange, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. The dance on Dec. 10 will be Christmas for Kids. The orchestra will donate their time, as well as others, and anyone wishing to donate money or food to help the cause along can do so at this time. It will be sincerely appreciated.

Oxford Pomona Grange will meet at Oxford Grange on Dec. 6 for their Christmas Party. There will not be a supper before the meeting, but there will be refreshments after the meeting. Since this is the Christmas Party, each member attending is asked to bring a $3 gift to exchange with someone else of the same sex.
If you read this, please pass the word along to other Pomona members, as it wasn't announced at the last meeting. Thank you.

Recalling Harry E. Mason's, career, friends and relatives

By ELIZABETH MASON CARTER

As a very young man, Harry E. Mason left Gould and Bethel to work several years as a salesman. First, he sold shoes and then worked for Foss Extracts in Freeport and Portland.

In his early thirties he went as a salesman to Baker Extracts in Springfield (and the Boston office), of which Walter Baker was the founder and owner.

Mr. Baker had no children. He became very pleased with Harry Mason's enterprise and encouraged him to buy shares in his company. Harry became one of the two largest stock holders and vice president of the company, and was a director for 40 years. After he returned to Bethel, he was vice president of Bethel National Bank for a while, a trustee of Gould Academy from 1939 to 1953, and trustee-emeritus to his death in 1971.

Harry was close, before his marriage, to his brother Charles, a University of Maine engineering graduate who worked in California and Arizona. He had a brilliant son, Charles Morgan Mason, Ph.D., Yale, in whom he took a great interest until his life changed by marriage to Muriel, who had no interest in the nephew, his wife or three children. This very successful nephew died in 1989 at his Pittsburgh, Pa., home, leaving his brilliant widow, an ordained Presbyterian minister, and their son, vice president of the University of West Virginia, and a daughter in New Jersey, who is married to a military career man, a colonel, with a son and daughter each with three children. Also, their oldest son, an Episcopalian rector in Salt Lake City, had died early of a heart attack, leaving his widow and their three children. Charles Morgan Mason was highly regarded and honored in the research engineering field and author of over 100 scientific papers. Despite Harry's nephew's success, Muriel wished no contact at all, although Harry would have, as he was interested in my closeness to this nephew and his family.

He and Muriel made a home in Boston for a time, eventually spending summers at the Park House in Bethel and winters in Florida. Both were ardent golfers.

Their marriage came as a real surprise. Harry was a close friend of Muriel's parents, so he had long known her. When she was at Smith College, her roommate was Therese Metcalf of Farmington, daughter of his cousin, Ethel Walker Metcalf, who grew up across from Harry's old home in the house where Bonnama Pottery is located. When in Springfield, Harry occasionally drove to Northampton to take the girls out to dinner.

Harry spent summer vacations in his late parents, Charles and Melissa's home at the corner of Clark and Main streets (now owned by Robert Saunders), with his sister, Miss Fannie Mason, for whom he maintained the home as long as she lived.

I well recall when Muriel married Harry. She had been my excellent and favorite teacher of English at Gould and she had stayed in touch with me ever after. The Rev. Sias of South Paris was a friend of my parents, and he appeared at our home on July 12, 1929, very excited to report on the wedding he had just performed. This proved to be that of Muriel to Harry at a favorite scenic spot of theirs, Mt. Prospect in Lancaster, N.H. Rev. Sias reported it as his most unusual ceremony, as the bride and groom chose to be married in Muriel's beloved yellow Studebaker convertible. They had told no one of their plans.

While I had known my cousin Harry before, I became much better acquainted the rest of his long years, and he loved to talk about his business career almost to the last days in the Devonshire Nursing Home in Portland. My last visit was on his 103rd birthday, and although he was blind, he still knew me.

Muriel was 32 when she married him at his age of 60. Fortunately, he was mentally very alert until 100, but his last years were spent in nursing homes. The age difference had become harder with Harry less active. Muriel had never made many close friends. Her interests were not typical of most women. She was very well educated in the law by her father, and she shared Harry's keen interest in investments. Every morning the couple perused the stock market reports and both were extremely knowledgeable. She had not been brought up to know housekeeping (there was usually help in the home) and she knew nothing about cooking.

Her mother often expressed regret at not teaching her more. Mrs. Park, of whom I was exceedingly fond, was not only a lovely looking lady but a fine homemaker. From the time I was five years old she took a great interest in me, and I grew to be a very frequent visitor whenever possible. Muriel, who was a dynamic young woman, fascinated me by the time she was my teacher, and I was pleased to always be in touch with her. An excellent teacher, she had a great love of books, as I did, and we had fine conversations. I really never knew anyone like her. Sadly, during her last 10 years spent in a Portland nursing home, her mind became confused. I visited her whenever possible.

Many people have asked me about Harry Mason, and whether he had relatives here. There were years ago, I am the last of our Mason line descended from Moses Jr., who moved to the present Norseman site in 1799 from Dublin, N.H., with several children, including Dr. (and Congressman) Moses Mason, who became owner of the home which is now the Bethel Historical Society Museum. A brother of his, Ayers Mason, my great-great-grandfather (he married Eunice Hale of South Waterford) who built the home on the Middle Intervale Road now owned by Richard Penley. Ayers had five children born there, and the oldest son, Charles, married Melissa Russell (mother a Kimball) and was the father of seven children. He was a successful merchant and lumberman. All the Masons were successful in business and active in town affairs. He had five daughters and two sons. Charles was the one who became an engineer and father of Charles, the only nephew of Harry.

Ayers' second son was Oliver, also a merchant, lumberman, and town treasurer for years. He was very active in the Universalist Church, giving it a large legacy. His first wife died in childbirth with the second child. Her daughter Alice became a well-known Boston business woman, retiring to Bethel. His second wife, Olive Lee, long a Gould trustee as he had been, was a teacher from Vermont. She became the mother of Leslie Lee, a Bowdoin graduate and highly successful manufacturer in South Paris -- a millionaire father of two, Donald of Paris Hill, deceased in '89, whose two children lived in Massachusetts, and his sister, Dorothea Underwood Ricker, deceased many years. He was a Bowdoin graduate and she graduated from Smith College. She had two children, a son in Denver, Colo., and a daughter in Rye, N.Y.

Ayers, who became known as the biggest land-timber owner in this area, including northeast New Hampshire, had a third son, William Wallace, who for care of his parents (mother died 1865, father 1890) inherited the ancestral farm (1826) which for years was considered one of Oxford County's best diversified farms. William was the son most occupied (all were) in timberland ownership and operation. He married Hepsibah Kimball and they had four children. Hepsibah was well educated and motivated all of her children to get good educations. The oldest, Israel Wallace, became a successful mill owner at Rumford, area around it named Hale for his grandmother. Herman was the youngest brother, my father, a Shaws Business College graduate, (also a certified accountant who taught there some) became Wallace's mill partner in 1898 until it was sold in 1910. Wallace, with ill advised prospecting "bug," went to Alaska, later to Seattle to remain to his death. He had no children. His wife, Minnie Wheeler, who was a teacher, died in 1922. He died in 1935. His brother Herman remained on the farm and operated the family timberlands. He married Pauline Dodge of Topsfield, Mass., in 1906, a teacher, and I was the only child, born in 1907.

Frank, the other son, who graduated from Harvard Law School, was a famed athlete at Harvard, never married, and always lived in Boston.

Their one daughter, Sarah, a Bates graduate who taught school, married Stephen Byrd living always in death in Berlin, N.H. Their daughter, Harriett Donahue, a widowed mother of three, graduated from Keene College and has lived ever since in Keene, N.H. Her three children live in Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire. She was a social worker for several years.

It should be noted that the Mason descendants have mostly left Maine.

Ayers' oldest daughter, Maria Antoinette, married General Clark Edwards of Otisfield. They had a large family. Their home was always on Vernon Street and is now owned by John Head. One son, Fred, stayed in Bethel operating timberlands. He, his wife, and adopted daughter have been long deceased.

The youngest Ayers Mason child was Mary Ellen, who married Seth Walker, a Bethel merchant, and always resided where Bonnama Pottery is today. They had two children, both Bridgton Academy graduates (as were William Mason's sons Frank, Herman and their sister Sarah). Daughter Ethel met Clinton Metcalf at Bridgton Academy. He came from Farmington, where they lived after their marriage. One daughter, Therese, roomed with Muriel Park at Smith College. She married Carroll Mitchell, vice president and general manager of Central Maine Power Company, and they lived in Augusta. Their one daughter graduated with a Ph.D. from Columbia University and married a Michigan man and has always lived there. Seth Walker's son, Ernest, was married and a salesman.

I do not think Harry knew many of the cousins well. They both showed a real interest in the education of young people, hence the long planned gift to Gould Academy.

Youngster pilots birthday eve supervised solo

It was Jonathan Early's dream to solo in Cessna 172 N19735 before his 14th birthday. He practiced on the morning of Nov. 22, and was the last pilot to land the Cessna successfully. (The plane crashed that afternoon while being flown by another pilot).

Following last week's crash (see last week's Bethel Citizen), Steve Whitney, co-owner of Bethel Air Service, contacted several airports to locate a plane that could be rented in time for Jon to fly a supervised solo (with an instructor along, but saying nothing unless needed) before his 14th birthday. Twitchell's Airport in Turner provided a Sky Hawk for Thanksgiving morning.

Just two hours before he turned 14, Jon got his wish to solo. Federal Aviation Regulations require that all student pilots be 16 years of age to solo unsupervised. On Nov. 24 at 11:13 a.m. Jon performed a supervised solo. He took off, circled the airport and landed without any help or comments from the co-pilot or the cameraman.

Jon has been taking flying lessons since June 11 at Bethel Air Service. He has accumulated 21.9 hours of dual instruction and 13.8 hours of observation flying. He completed his night flying requirements at Oxford Airport in July. Dan Bilodeau, co-owner and operator of Bethel Air Service, has been Jon's primary instructor.

Jon is the grandson of Juanita Allen of Bryant Pond. Eleven days ago, she flew with her grandson. Jon's mother, Pat, is the owner of Early Real Estate and has flown many times with her son at the controls. Jon was only four years old the first time he was at the controls of an airplane, in Ft. Myers, Fla.

GARDEN CALENDAR

Cooperative extensions of the universities of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont have pooled their resources this fall to prepare the 1995 North Country Garden Calendar.

The publication, available to the public for $5, contains the best recommendations of the universities' specialists in fruits, vegetables and landscape gardening. Each day features a helpful gardening tip, and each month provides a full-page illustrated topic with in-depth information for home gardeners.

The topics are: forcing flowering branches, common house plant pests, greenhouse "greens," extending the growing season, garden railways, lawn insect pests, large shrubs for screening, tree sleuth, bulb forcing, making apple cider, artificial lighting and holiday flower treats. The calendar also lists moon phases and holidays.

State coordinators in the preparation of the North Country Garden Calendar are: Lois Berg Stack, UMaine Extension ornamental horticulture specialist; Leonard Perry, greenhouse and nursery specialist, University of Vermont Extension System; and Nancy Adams, University of New Hampshire Extension educator. The calendar was edited by Melanie Spencer, state publications editor for UMaine Extension.

Calendar orders may be sent to: Garden Calendar, UMaine Cooperative Extension, 5722 Deering Hall, Orono, ME 04469-5722. Make checks payable to UMaine Cooperative Extension. For more information, call the Crops Office at 1-800-870-7270.

Mainers next year will earn bachelor's and master's degrees via interactive video thanks to a $600,000 federal grant to the University of Maine System. Chancellor J. Orenduff announced last week.

The federal money will fund construction and equipment for a statewide TV channel for the state Network of Maine University System's distance education network. EdNet's current channels transmit 70 channels to more than 100 sites at 101 sites all around from the western mountain offshore islands.

"Maine was a national distance learning in 1989 began offering interactive courses," said Orenduff. "The new channel will add the new channels to our leadership role using technology to bring opportunity to more people, and that's a real benefit to Maine and for Maine people."

Thursday is AIDS Day at Telstar

By WENDY HANSCOM

Dec. 1 is National AIDS Day, and all Telstar High School students will spend half their time in each class discussing AIDS- and HIV-related subjects.

From English to chemistry, AIDS will be the major class topic of the day.

Telstar math teachers, for example, may take AIDS/HIV statistics and have students turn the numbers into various graphs. High school biology teachers may discuss the anatomy of an AIDS cell.

The day is being coordinated by health teacher Steve Keene and student teacher Lisa Pivin.

"Many Americans think the AIDS crisis is over -- that fewer cases are being diagnosed," Pivin said. "Some people think HIV and AIDS have gotten too much attention and they're bored by it. But the number of people with AIDS continues to rise within this country. HIV infection has brought many people great suffering in isolation, pain, uncertainty and despair."

Young people are particularly in danger of getting the disease because of the risky situations they place themselves in, Pivin said. Many teens may be having unprotected sexual intercourse or may be experimenting with intravenous drugs -- activities which increase their risk of infection.

The Maine Bureau of Health estimates that 1,500 people in Maine may be infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

As of July 1994, there were 530 "official" cases of people with AIDS in Maine, according to the Maine Quarterly AIDS Update. Another 279 people have died of the disease.

Nationally there are 361,509 people with AIDS, and 220,871 have died from it.

Because a person can be infected with HIV for as long as 10 or more years before the signs of AIDS appear, AIDS educators feel a significant number of young people get the virus as teenagers.

As of the spring of 1989, more than 18,000 people age 20-29 in the U.S. had been diagnosed with AIDS.

In Maine 103 men and 14 women ages 20-29 have been diagnosed with AIDS, as of July 1994.

"Our goal at Telstar is to impact the students," Keene said. "If it works on one kid, who never gets himself into a risky situation and gets AIDS, then it's worth it."

State education network to launch new channel

Mainers next year will begin to earn bachelor's and master's degrees via interactive television thanks to a $600,000 federal grant to the University of Maine System, System Chancellor J. Michael Orenduff announced last week.

The federal money will fund construction and equipment for a fourth statewide TV channel for the Education Network of Maine, the University System's distance education network. EdNet's current three channels transmit 70 courses per semester to more than 2,600 students at 101 sites all around Maine, from the western mountains to the offshore islands.

"Maine was a national leader in distance learning in 1989, when we began offering interactive television courses," said Orenduff, "and the addition of the new channel underlines our leadership role. We are using technology to bring more opportunity to more people at less cost, and that's a real bargain for Maine and for Maine people," he said.

Six associate (two-year) degrees now are offered over EdNet, plus two master's degrees -- in industrial/technology education and, imported from the University of South Carolina, in library science.

The new channel will make it possible for the first time for Maine students to earn bachelor's degrees through interactive TV and for an expanded menu of master's offerings. Planned are bachelor's degrees in liberal arts and in business and master's degrees in educational administration and in business administration.

George P. Connick, on leave as president of the University of Maine at Augusta, heads the Education Network of Maine. "The ability to offer bachelor's and graduate degrees is a tremendous step forward. For a variety of reasons -- distance from a campus, family responsibilities, jobs -- many people have not been able to enroll as bachelor's-degree students at university campuses. Now we will be able to bring many of the University System's full resources directly to the people," he said.

The grant, which was awarded specifically to make bachelor's and master's programs available, comes from the National Telecommunications and Information Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The total project is expected to cost $812,000, with Maine money matching federal money on roughly a one-to-three basis.

Preliminary work on constructing the new channel will begin Dec. 27, with 1995's summer session the target for full service to students. EdNet's Connick calls this schedule "ambitious, but we are committed to bringing these degree programs to students as quickly as possible."

The Education Network of Maine is a statewide distance education system using fiber-optics, cable, and microwave and satellite technology to deliver credit and non credit programming to students and others at University of Maine System campuses and centers, technical colleges, high schools, and government and corporate receive sites. EdNet is an independent unit of the University of Maine System and is headquartered at the University of Maine at Augusta campus.

Second grant
The 4th-channel grant is the second infusion of federal money received recently by the University of Maine System for telecommunications. In October, the University System was awarded $112,700 for the Maine Telecommunications and Information Technology Planning Project. The Maine Project will develop a comprehensive plan to address the state's long-term needs for an information superstructure linking Maine to national and global networks.

The Maine Project is a cooperative effort involving the University System, the Maine Public Broadcasting Corporation, state government, and others.

Assistant Secretary of State Janet E. Waldron chairs the project. Michael Angelakis, president of State Cable Television, is vice chair.

Maine's Planning grant was one of only 92 awarded nationally out of more than 1,000 applications. The U.S. Commerce Department's Telecommunications and Information Program is providing the federal funds, which are being matched by $113,100 in Maine-based money.

The Maine Project will last one year.

Forest Legacy applications available

Applications for Maine's Forest Legacy Program to conserve forest land that is threatened by development will be accepted through Dec. 31, according to Susan J. Bell, director of the Maine Forest Service. Forest Legacy uses federal funds to purchase conservation easements from willing sellers to maintain public recreation.

"We anticipate that Maine's 1994 Forest Legacy allocation will be increased by $650,000, bringing Maine's total allocation since the program began in 1992 to more than $2.6 million. This year, the program enabled a public/private partnership to conserve 1,272 acres and more than three miles of undeveloped shoreline along Cup-supic and Mooslookmeguntic Lakes in Oxford County. Additional conservation easements are being negotiated by the Forest Legacy Committee," Bell said.

To be considered for the Maine Forest Legacy Program, landowners must complete an application form and send it to the Maine Forest Service postmarked by Dec. 31. To qualify for the program, the land must be threatened by present or future conversion to non-forest use; provide opportunities for the continuation of traditional use such as outdoor recreation and timber harvesting; provide two or more public values such as public recreation, fish and wildlife habitat or scenic values; be more than 50 percent commercial forest land; and be open to unrestricted public access by foot, enabling the use of the property in the manner specified in the easement.

A packet of information and an application is available from the Maine Forest Service, Dept. of Conservation, Station 22, Augusta, ME 04333. Additional information may be obtained by calling the Forest Service at 1-800-367-0223.

CPS TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL GEOGRAPHY BEE

The Crescent Park School will compete in the first round of the 1995 National Geography Bee on Jan. 10.

This is the seventh year the National Geographic Society has held the bee.

The winner of the CPS bee will advance to the next level of competition, a written examination. At the national competition, May 30 and 31 in Washington, D.C., all school winners are eligible to win the national championship and its first prize, a $25,000 college scholarship.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

"Ask, and it will be given you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you." (Matthew 7:7 and Luke 11:9).

I often wonder who reads these columns. Are you curious? lonely? hoping for inspiration? dissatisfied with life? grateful? grieving? rejoicing?

All of these conditions indicate that you are on a journey that can be a journey of discovery. Have you thought of asking for what you need? At first the asking may be superficial, but if you dig deeper, you will find what it is that you really need. When you ask for that, it will be given to you, whether it is courage or patience or wisdom or something else.

Part of your journey is seeking. What is it that you really seek? Is it peace, or adventure, or God's presence? If you continue to seek you will find. Maybe not quite what you expected, but you will find what you truly seek.

What does it mean to knock? What doors seem closed to you? Persistently knock and that door will be opened to riches you never expected.

These are promises that Jesus made, which we so seldom claim. In the once popular vernacular, "Try it; you'll like it."

MDOT

The night patrol of the department of Transportation began its annual task of winter watch on Maine's roads. The patrols, which are their 41st season, cover the 3,400 miles of the 240 miles of interstate alerting plowing and sanding when a storm moves into the area.

John E. Dority, MDOT's Bureau of Maintenance and Operations, points out that night patrol operates only when inclement weather is on clear, calm nights storms when plowing crews are already working. patrol personnel will perform duties at DOT maintenance facilities.

In addition to calling and sanding crews, night patrol carry sand to patches of highways a locations and are prepared assistance to motorists.

Throughout their tour night patrol personnel MDOT division offices least once every hour weather and road conditions, division offices the information to MDOT's headquarters in Augusta. each day, the Augusta division provides statewide information MDOT division offices.

Latest reports on road conditions and the status are available to news to the general public. MDOT division offices: Isle, Ellsworth, Bangor and Dixfield.

Mahoosuc Arts notes:

On Saturday night, Nov. 26, at Telstar High School's Helen Berry Auditorium, the Robinson Ballet Company of Bangor magically opened the holiday season in the Bethel area with its presentation of "The Nutcracker."

The program was introduced by local dance instructor, Sue Farrar, and the hushed audience of "children of all ages" awaited the familiar story of Clara's dream journey to Toyland with her Nutcracker Prince. They were not to be disappointed, as the ballet opened to a parade of brilliantly costumed Victorian families hastily on their way to the festivities at the Silberhaus home. The scenery, simple in design, allowed one's imagination to embellish the surroundings as the dancers moved through each scene.

The audience was mesmerized by the multiple roles of the excellent dancers and the story each told. Enthusiastic applause greeted the frightful mouse masks and the enchanting Dancing Snowflakes. The dances by the Chocolate From Spain, the Coffee From Arabia, the Tea From China, and the Trepan From Russia were received with ever increasing approval. The children in the audience seemed to react in unison to the antics of Mother Ginger and her dancing children, hidden ever so obviously beneath her skirt, as well as the three innocent, wobbly-legged sheep as they scampered about to avoid the wolf.

The professionalism and talent of the young dance students and the Robinson Ballet Troupe were evident throughout the performance. The final two dances -- the Waltz of the Flowers and the Grande Pas De Deux were executed with utmost elegance and perfection.

Many thanks to the Maine Arts Commission and the many sponsors who helped to bring such a wonderful production of this classic ballet to Bethel and left everyone with "visions of sugar plums dancing in their heads."

ST. ANDREWS SOCIETY

Workshops in bagpiping, Celtic harping and Scottish pipe-band style drumming will be offered by the St. Andrew's Society of Maine on Saturday, Dec. 3, and Sunday, Dec. 4, at the Anah Temple on Main Street, Bangor, across from the Paul Bunyan statue.

The workshops, open to students at all levels including beginner and "just interested," will include three sessions -- two on Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1-4 p.m., and one on Sunday, 9:30 a.m. to noon. The harp workshop will meet only on Saturday.

Instructors are Nancy Tunnicliffe, pipe major of the Berkshire Highlanders pipe band in Massachusetts, a well-known teacher and judge of piping; Robert Knodell, drummer with pipe bands and teacher of drumming in and around Fredericton, New Brunswick; and Gary Maxim, harper and teacher from Ellsworth.

The St. Andrew's Society of Maine is a non-sectarian group of people of Scottish heritage and/or with interest in Scotland. It offers scholarships for study in Scottish arts, and is presenting these workshops in an effort to widen interest and participation in the Scottish arts and culture. Another set of workshops will be held in the spring, 1995.

Cost for the full two days, or for any part thereof, is $20 per person, payable on the day of the workshop. Registration will be held from 8:45 to 9:30 a.m. Participants should provide their own instruments if possible, or should call in advance to see about borrowing or renting them. For information please phone Peter MacPherson at 207-338-1196.

News from

Evans Notch Ranger Station, W.M.N.F.

The Maine Department of Transportation in conjunction with the White Mountain National Forest announced that a section of State Route 113, known as the Evans Notch Highway, will be closed for the winter beginning Thursday, Dec. 1. The road is gated on the north end near the National Forest boundary, just south of Gilead. The southern gate is located at the Basin Recreation Area, just north of North Chatham, N.H.

This is the third winter that this section of Route 113 will be closed. The road, which passes over Evans Notch, is not maintained for winter use, except for a portion which is groomed for snowmobiles. Unauthorized use is prohibited. The lower gates will be opened when road conditions clear in the spring, allowing partial access from the north and south. The entire route will be opened for travel as soon as conditions in the higher elevations allow.

$50 X-C SKI PASS

The American Lung Association of Maine, in cooperation with the Maine Nordic Ski Council, is offering a 1994-1995 "Gold Card," which allows the holder 55 ski visits at 11 ski areas -- for a total value over $400. Cardholders can use the pass themselves, or take up to four friends or family members for a day of exercise and skiing. The Gold Card is valid any day of the week and the number of cards available is limited.

The following areas are participating in the Cross Country Ski Gold Card: Beech Ridge Farm, Bethel Inn Ski Touring Center, The Birchies Touring Center, Carter's Cross Country Center, Harris Farm Cross Country Ski Center, Saddleback Ski Nordic Touring Center, Ski-A-Bit, Sugarloaf Ski Touring Center, Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center, Titcomb Mountain Ski Area, and Troll Valley Cross Country and Fitness Center.

For more information on the 1994-1995 Gold Card, contact the American Lung Association of Maine at 128 Sewall Street, Augusta, ME 04330 or call 1-800-458-6472.

'MADE IN MAINE' LOOKS AT MAINE BASEBALL PLAYERS

A special expanded edition of "Made in Maine" on Dec 3 will explore Maine's rich legacy of baseball players and others who have made major contributions to the sport. "Made in Maine: Baseball" airs at 7 p.m., on the member-supported stations of Maine Public Television.

Louis Sockalexis was a member of Maine's Penobscot tribe and reportedly the person for whom the Cleveland Indians were named. Clyde Sukeforth was the man who scouted Jackie Robinson for the Dodgers and managed the club during Robinson's first game. These two men from Maine made major breakthroughs in the racial barrier of baseball. Sukeforth, now in his 90s, is interviewed at his Waldoboro home about his baseball memories, from his days with the Augusta Millionaires to his national league career as catcher, scout and even club manager.

Convey is a 1994 graduate of Tufts University School of Dentistry. He earned a fellowship in the American College of Dentists, received honors in operative dentistry from Tufts and an award from the Academy of Operative Dentistry. Convey also served as class president for all four of his years at Tufts and is an active member of the American Dental Association. Henricks is a 1991 graduate of Gould Academy and a recent graduate of the dental hygiene program at the University of Maine at Orono. Henricks was a recipient of the Golden Scaler Award, which is awarded by the instructors to a student who demonstrates outstanding patient care and knowledge throughout her three years in the program. The addition of the new staff members will allow Mason's practice to extend its office hours, improve emergency coverage, offer more timely scheduling and a choice of dental providers.

NEW ENGLAND SKI SAMPLER

Burke Min., Vt.; Black Mt., N.H.; and Mt. Abram, northern New England's family mountains have teamed up to offer a six-day vacation. The ski sampler offers a variety of ski terrain and a choice of lodging unique to New England.

Ski two days at Burke and stay two nights at Burke's Mountside Condominiums, ski two days at Black and stay two nights at White's Inn and ski two days at Mt. Abram and stay two nights at the Bethel Inn. The vacation begins Sunday night and continues through the skiing day on Saturday. Skiers may choose to vacation from east to west or west to east. Each resort is less than a two-hour drive from each other. To allow for a full ski day and ease of travel to the next destination, lodging establishments honor a late check-out. The Sampler vacation starts at $1,099 for a family of four—two adults and two children ages 6-11.

Reservations and vacation brochures are available through the ski resort group's central reservation service located at Waterville Travel Service in Waterville or by contacting a local travel agent. The toll free reservation number is 800-359-2106. Custom-designed sampler vacations are available for shorter stays.

MT. ABRAM WILL HOST CHRISTMAS CRAFT FAIR

Ski Mt. Abram will host its first annual Shop 'n Ski Christmas Craft Fair, during the weekend of Dec. 17 and Dec. 18, in west wing of the base lodge. The event, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 9 to 3 on Sunday, is intended to give skiers the chance to combine their Christmas shopping with early-season skiing. A lift-ticket special is also expected to be announced.

A wide variety of craftspeople will be in attendance, offering handcrafted gifts, Teddy bears, polar fleece hats, mugs, pottery, baked goods, wind chimes, ornaments, stained glass, decorative wood products, gift baskets, Ecuadorian sweaters, handmade baskets. There will also be a sale at Keenan Company Ski Shop.

On Saturday, musical entertainment will be provided by The Viking Voices and the Vikettes, starting at 11 a.m. Children's entertainment will include juggling and balloon creatures by Rosco. The Clown — and Santa Claus may be making an appearance.

MANAGEMENT CLUB TO MEET AT SUDBURY INN

Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Sudbury Inn, Bethel. Social hour will be from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., dinner from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The meal will be $14 per person.

The guest speaker, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be Lonnie Lauer, D.O., of WorkSafe.

Reservations for the Dec. 5 meeting are being taken by Terri Grover of Fred P. Saunders Co. in Bridgton, 647-3331. Phone no later than Friday, Dec. 2, to reserve.

Western Maine Management Club, started in 1961, is made up of business people in Western Maine who meet on the first Monday of each month to discuss issues and ideas timely to today's business climate. New members are always welcome. Membership information can be obtained from John Pietroski at National Wood Products in Oxford, 539-4463.

Bolsters is changing hands

Bruce and Nancy Rideout, owners of Bolsters Decorating, with stores in South Paris and Bridgton, will turn over the reins to their daughter, Susan Rideout Morin, on Jan. 1, 1995.

Morin will become president and chief operating officer. She will remain as primary designer and decorating consultant. Mr. and Mrs. Rideout will continue in their active roles as treasurer and South Paris manager respectively.

The Rideouts purchased Bolsters in August 1976 from Marvin and Eleanor Beebe. Mrs. Beebe's father, Edwin Haskell, had been a partner of Mort Bolster, the last Bolster active in the business. The store has been located in Market Square, South Paris, since 1852.

Starting in the horse and buggy days as a general store, Bolsters has evolved over the years into the full service, interior decorating center that it is today. In 1982, the Rideouts purchased Bridgton Paint and Paper and converted it to Bolsters Decorating in Bridgton.

Future plans include "continuing the same top-quality products, workmanship and service that have made Bolsters an area household name for the past 142 years," Morin said.

"Sometime in the near future, consideration will be given to following the retail trend of recent years and relocating the business in a southerly direction on Route 26," she said.

The new owner graduated from Oxford Hills High School in 1984. She lives in South Paris with her husband, Mike, and sons Mike Jr., and Tyler Bruce. In 1986 she graduated with honors from Endicott College, Beverly, Mass., where she majored in interior design.

Getting Money for College Just Got Simpler... and More Affordable, Too.

Introducing the New Individual Education Account

You know the problems with college loans. They're a hassle to get. And you worry about how you're going to pay them back.

Well, there's something new that can help. It's the Individual Education Account, recently created by the President and the Congress. It's great for undergraduates and graduates, too. Here's how it works:

- Borrowing for college is simpler. You can get your loan directly through your college. No more confusion about where to go for a loan. No more red tape.
- Loans are more affordable. The new direct loan program lowers fees and interest rates for all types of college loans.
- You pay back as you can. You can tailor your repayment plan to match your ability to pay. That means you can start a business, do community service, or take other jobs you want without being burdened with a big, fixed debt early in your career.
- Refinancing is available. If you have more than one loan, an IEA can help you consolidate them and refinance in a way that makes more sense.

Sound good?
Then call your financial aid officer or 1-800-4FEDAID to get all the facts.
